What is the Clinical Trials Network?

The mission of the Clinical Trials Network (CTN) is to improve the quality of drug abuse treatment throughout the country using science as the vehicle.

The CTN provides an enterprise in which the National Institute on Drug Abuse, treatment researchers, and community-based service providers cooperatively develop, validate, refine, and deliver new treatment options to patients in community-level clinical practice. This unique partnership between community treatment providers and academic research leaders aims to achieve the following objectives:

- Conducting studies of behavioral, pharmacological, and integrated behavioral and pharmacological treatment interventions of therapeutic effect in rigorous, multi-site clinical trials to determine effectiveness across a broad range of community-based treatment settings and diversified patient populations; and
- Ensuring the transfer of research results to physicians, clinicians, providers, and patients.

Nodes

APPALACHIAN TRI-STATE NODE

Affiliation: University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA
Principal Investigator: Dennis C. Daley, Ph.D.
E-mail: daleydc@upmc.edu

The Appalachian Tri-State Node (ATS) is a partnership between Western Psychiatric Institute & Clinic of the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, West Virginia University School of Medicine, and five community treatment programs (CTPs) in Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, and Western Pennsylvania. This node serves over 15,000 patients annually in urban and rural settings in all types of addiction and dual disorder treatment programs. Special interests and capabilities of the ATS include treating patients in rural settings, those with co-occurring psychiatric disorders, adolescents, women with children, criminal justice involved clients, and opiate addicts in need of maintenance treatment. ATS also has a strong interest in training professionals, developing treatment manuals, and developing recovery materials for clients and their families.

CALIFORNIA-ARIZONA NODE

Affiliation: University of California at San Francisco, San Francisco, CA
Principal Investigator: James L. Sorensen, Ph.D.
E-mail: james@itsa.ucsf.edu

The California-Arizona Node represents a partnership between researchers at the University of California, San Francisco, and the University of Arizona, in collaboration with six CTPs operating in both urban and rural locations (San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, and Tuscon areas). Participating CTPs, several of which have multiple sites, include hospital-based and community-based programs, and include residential, outpatient, and methadone treatment approaches. Collectively, these six CTPs serve a racially and ethnically diverse population of more than 16,000 patients per year.

DELAWARE VALLEY NODE

Affiliation: University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, PA
Principal Investigator: George E. Woody, M.D.
E-mail: woody@tresearch.org

The Delaware Valley Node is part of the Center for Studies of Addiction at the University of Pennsylvania and the Treatment Research Institute in Philadelphia; and is also affiliated with Thomas Jefferson University School of Medicine and the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. There are 15 CTPs in its provider network; serving residents of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware; in addition, the DV Node includes one managed behavioral health care organization with over 500,000 Philadelphia area members. The DV Node member organizations provide services to patients with every type of substance use disorder including special populations such as: 1) persons living with HIV, 2) adolescents, 3) veterans, 4) women with children, and 5) patients living in rural areas.

FLORIDA NODE

Affiliation: University of Miami, Miami, FL
Principal Investigator: José Szapocznik, Ph.D.
E-mail: jszapocz@med.miami.edu

The Florida Node includes the Center for Family Studies in the Miller School of Medicine at the University of Miami and community treatment programs in Florida and Puerto Rico. These CTPs serve urban and semi-rural areas, and treat an ethnically and racially diverse population. The five founding CTPs are leaders in the innovative service programs and the development of drug abuse treatment in the State of Florida. The node has considerable expertise in: 1) adolescent family treatment, 2) treatment for HIV/AIDS populations, 3) aggressive engagement of drug abusers into treatment, and 4) microanalysis of family therapy clinical process. The node has special interest and expertise with Spanish speaking populations both in the US and abroad.

LONG ISLAND REGIONAL NODE

Affiliation: New York State Psychiatric Institute, New York, NY

Principal Investigator: Edward V. Nunes, M.D.

E-mail: nunese@pi.cpmc.columbia.edu

The Long Island Node includes five community-based organizations with a total of over 50 treatment programs serving a culturally and ethnically diverse patient population. These programs encompass a wide variety of treatment modalities including inpatient and outpatient programs, detoxification programs, methadone maintenance, therapeutic communities, programs for adolescents, and programs for women with children. Areas of special interest and expertise within the node include: psychiatric and medical co-morbidity, HIV, adolescent treatment, women and trauma, and combined behavioral and pharmacotherapy.

MID-ATLANTIC NODE

Affiliation: The Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, MD

Principal Investigator: Maxine Stitzer, Ph.D.

E-mail: mstitzer@mail.jhmi.edu

The Mid-Atlantic Node includes Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Virginia Commonwealth University, Friends Research Institute, and seven CTPs. The CTP network provides about 5,000 treatment slots serving a diverse group of people suffering from substance use disorder, which is often complicated by other psychiatric and medical illnesses.

NEW ENGLAND NODE

Affiliation: Yale University, West Haven, CT

Principal Investigator: Kathleen Carroll, Ph.D.

E-Mail: kathleen.carroll@yale.edu

The New England Node comprises five core CTPs and seven additional CTPs. These CTPs were selected on the basis of the size, breadth, and diversity of the populations they serve; volume and administrative efficiency, and commitment to evidence based treatments. The total number of unduplicated annual admission to substance use treatment is over 27,000. A wide array of treatment modalities is offered including: programs for HIV/HCV, treatment of adolescents, substance use and primary care, and psychiatric co-morbidity.

NEW YORK NODE

Affiliation: New York University School of Medicine, New York, NY

Principal Investigator: John Rotrosen, M.D.

E-mail: john.rotrosen@med.nyu.edu

The NY Node is a consortium of academic centers, clinical programs and local and regional agencies with a long track record of fruitful collaboration in research, training, service delivery, policy-making, funding, and advocacy for addictive disorders. Key academic institutions include New York University, The Rockefeller University, the Nathan Kline Institute, and the NY Academy of Medicine. Our 8 CTPs provide a wide range of programs and treatment models, and services for more than 13,000 patients with extensive diagnostic, ethnic, and gender diversity. NY Node CTPs have been at the forefront of translational research and have made a number of pioneering achievements including the establishment of the first outpatient narcotic detoxification clinic, the first non-hospital-based methadone program, the first methadone-to-abstinence residential community, and the first social work field training in addiction.

NORTH CAROLINA NODE

Affiliation: Duke University Medical Center, Durham, NC

Principal Investigator: Robert L. Hubbard, Ph.D, M.B.A.

E-mail: hubbard@ndri-nc.org

The North Carolina Node is a partnership between Duke University, National Development and Research Institutes, the State of North Carolina and 12 community treatment programs distributed across the State. These programs, which include the major providers of treatment in North Carolina, serve more than 20,000 financially, culturally and ethnically diverse clients located in rural and urban settings. The programs include a therapeutic community, area mental health centers, private outpatient agencies, and regional residential addiction treatment centers. Treatments provided encompass a wide range of therapies, both behavioral and pharmacologic, for families, adolescents, and adults.

NORTHERN NEW ENGLAND NODE

*Affiliation: McLean Hospital, Belmont, MA
Principal Investigator: Roger D. Weiss, M.D.
E-mail: rweiss@mclean.harvard.edu*

The Northern New England Node is a partnership between clinical addiction researchers at Harvard Medical School, other universities, and CTPs located in five New England states – Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, and Vermont. Together, the CTPs had over 48,000 admissions in 2001 for substance use disorders. The CTPs provide services to an ethnically diverse patient population with a variety of substance use disorders in rural, suburban, and urban locales. Special populations include individuals with comorbid psychiatric and medical illnesses, HIV-infected individuals, adolescents, pregnant women, and individuals involved with the criminal justice system.

OHIO VALLEY NODE

*Affiliation: University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, Cincinnati, OH Principal Investigator: Eugene Somoza, M.D., Ph.D.
E-mail: somoza@uc.edu*

The Ohio Valley Node includes 16 community treatment programs in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia, and Wisconsin, as well as researchers from the University of Cincinnati. The CTPs bring a large variety of substance abuse services and treat more than 54,000 patients per year. These patients live in both rural and urban areas and many are of Appalachian background.

OREGON/HAWAII NODE

*Affiliation: Oregon Health Sciences University, Portland, OR Principal Investigator: Dennis McCarty, Ph.D.
E-mail: mccartyd@ohsu.edu*

The Oregon/Hawaii Node is a bi-directional clinical trial partnership of two research and training organizations – Oregon Health &

Science University with support from the Kaiser Permanente Center for Health Research in Honolulu, Hawaii – and eight multi-modality drug treatment programs located in urban and rural communities in Oregon, Hawaii, and Washington. These programs serve a growing number of Latino, Native American, Hawaiian, Russian, Asian, and female clients. Services are provided across the treatment continuum.

PACIFIC REGION NODE

*Affiliation: The Regents of the University of California, Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA
Principal Investigator: Walter Ling, M.D.
E-mail: lwalter@ix.netcom.com*

The Pacific Region Node is a partnership between the Regents of the University of California, Los Angeles and several community treatment programs in the State. The node incorporates researchers and clinicians from throughout California. Many of the CTP networks have been involved in the transfer of research into practice for over a decade. The diverse communities served by the CTPs have geographic areas with epidemic methamphetamine use, increasing rates of heroin use among youthful populations, endemic inner city crack cocaine use, and dramatically increasing reports of the use of ecstasy and GHB.

SOUTHERN CONSORTIUM NODE

*Affiliation: Medical University of South Carolina, Charleston, SC
Principal Investigator: Kathleen T. Brady, M.D., Ph.D.
E-mail: bradyk@musc.edu*

The Southern Consortium Node (formerly the South Carolina Node) comprises five research CTPs in South Carolina and Georgia as well as approximately 25 treatment centers in South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi, who are members of the Southern Consortium. The consortium was formed to help facilitate promulgation of CTN findings and provide a larger pool of potential CTN research sites. The CTPs of the Southern Consortium provide services to adults and adolescents in both rural and urban areas and represent a wide range of treatment settings and modalities including 12-step, family therapy, medication management, inpatient detoxification, drug court, narcotic replacement therapy, and cognitive-behavioral therapy.

SOUTHWEST NODE

Affiliation: University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM
Principal Investigator: Michael Bogenschutz, M.D.
E-mail: mbogenschutz@salud.unm.edu

The Southwest Node includes the University of New Mexico Center on Alcoholism, Substance Abuse and Addictions (CASAA) and seven community treatment programs providing inpatient and outpatient, urban and rural psychotherapy and pharmacotherapy. New Mexico is the first “minority majority” state, and its clinical populations include large proportions of Native American and Hispanic clients.

TEXAS NODE

Affiliation: The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas, Dallas, TX
Principal Investigator: Bryon Adinoff, M.D.
E-mail: bryon.adinoff@utsouthwestern.edu

The Texas Node comprises the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas (UT Southwestern) and seven CTPs in Dallas, Ft. Worth, Austin, and El Paso. UT Southwestern brings together a faculty with extensive experience in the preclinical and clinical study of substance use disorders, the design, implementation, and analysis of multi-site, efficacy-effectiveness clinical trials in both adolescents and adults, the pharmacological treatment of comorbid disorders, and cultural issues in addiction. UT Southwestern faculty collaborate with CTPs representing over 11,000 annual inpatient and outpatient admissions for a primary substance use disorder, with large populations of Hispanic/Latino, African-American, adolescent, and female patients. The CTPs and associated sites also offer specialized treatment and outreach programs for HIV+ patients.

WASHINGTON NODE

Affiliation: University of Washington, Seattle, WA
Principal Investigator: Dennis M. Donovan, Ph.D.
E-mail: ddonovan@u.washington.edu

The Washington Node includes the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Institute at the University of Washington, and eight community treatment programs distributed geographically over Washington State. These programs provide a mix of settings including: urban and rural, private and public sector, in-patient/residential and outpatient, and drug free and methadone maintenance programs. The CTPs provide a wide range of treatment services to nearly 12,000 clients per year. All available services are also targeted to specific groups having special needs such as women, the elderly, dual disorder clients, homeless populations, and adolescent clients.

Coordinating Centers

Clinical Coordinating Center

*The EMMES Corporation
Rockville, MD
Principal Investigator: Michele Straus, R.Ph., M.S.
E-Mail: mstraus@nida.nih.gov*

The Clinical Coordinating Center (CCC), managed by The EMMES Corporation, provides resources to support the CTN in its general operations and the conduct of the multi-site clinical trials. The major responsibilities of the CCC include: (1) providing regulatory support, including reviewing and reporting SAE5 to the FDA (where necessary) and the DSMB; (2) conducting quality assurance monitoring visits, including initiation, interim monitoring and study close-out; (3) training on issues affecting the CTN across protocols and nodes; (4) providing pharmaceutical services; (5) providing laboratory drug testing and supplies; and (6) providing support in protocol development and implementation.

General CCC questions by email can be addressed to CTNSupport@EMMES.com. Questions about safety and making SAE reports can be sent to CTNSafety@EMMES.com.

Data & Statistics Center

*Duke Clinical Research Institute
Durham, NC
Principal Investigator: Dan Blazer, M.D., Ph.D.
E-Mail: blaze001@mc.duke.edu*

The Data and Statistics Center (DSC), managed by the Duke Clinical Research Institute, provides resources to support the CTN in its goal of conducting multi-site clinical trials. The major responsibilities of the DSC include the implementation of the following tasks: (1) establish systems for data management; (2) design and perform statistical analysis; (3) review and monitor the quality of data; (4) monitor trial progress; (5) prepare reports for Data Safety Monitoring Board; (6) assist in protocol development; (7) assist in the reporting of study findings; and (8) participate in relevant committees.

The DSC provides a Site Support Help Desk to answer questions. General DSC questions by email can be addressed to the DSC Site Support Help Desk at nidadsc-helo@mc.duke.edu.

Logistics Support Center

*DB Consulting Group, Inc.
Silver Spring, MD
Project Director: Cindy Elliott
E-Mail: celliott@dbconsultinggroup.com*

The Logistics Support Center (LSC), managed by DB Consulting Group, Inc., provides logistical support for the CTN. The major responsibilities of the LSC include the following: (1) provide pre-, on-site, and post-logistical support; (2) contact and confirm participants' travel and lodging arrangements; (3) process reimbursements; (4) develop meeting websites; (5) set up conference calls; (6) create meeting minutes and reports; and (7) distribute protocol brochures.

General LSC questions by email can be addressed to ctnsupport@dbconsultinggroup.com.

Name or Address Change

If you would like the information on you in the NIDA CTN Directory changed, please send the updated information to:

ctnsupport@dbconsultinggroup.com

We will make the change in the directory. Please also send information on any changes to your Node Coordinator.

Please note that any information you submit does not automatically change your access to LiveLink, or in any other way change your relationship with CTN. It simply updates the information entered into the CTN directory. Thank you.
